How to make a photo B&W except one colour in Photoshop

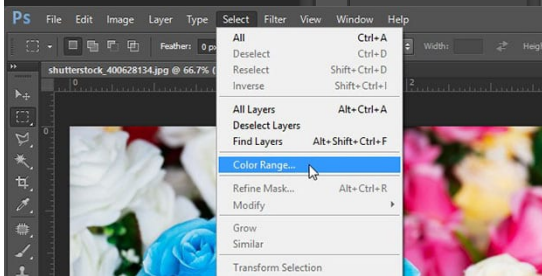

Do you want to make an image black and white except for one colour? Some photos can look really dramatic when you desaturate them and allow one colour to pop through. This article will help you achieve great results for next month's competition "hint of colour".

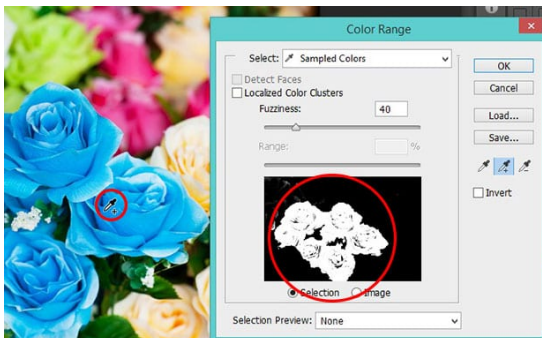

The first thing you need to do is open your image in Photoshop. Now right click on the background layer in the layers panel on the right-hand side of your photoshop screen, and select duplicate layer option (a new layer will be added named Layer 1).

Next, select the background layer again and press Ctrl + Shift + U to desaturate all the colours from the image. Make Layer 1 invisible (click on the eye icon) to see the effect of the desaturation on your photo

Next, make Layer 1 visible again, and select it in the Layers panel. Then go to Select > Colour Range from the top menu bar in Photoshop. You'll need to pick a colour that you want to pop out. In the Colour Range dialog box, choose the Eyedropper Tool with the plus sign (this tool is called "Add to Sample"). Then click on the colour you want to pick. Once you've picked your colour, hit the OK button to create a selection on your photo.

Then press Ctrl + Shift + I to inverse the selection, everything is selected except for the colour you want to preserve. Press the Delete button from your keyboard to remove the selected area from Layer 1. Now your photo will be in B & W except for one colour! (You can press Ctrl + D to remove the selection from the image). If there are any leftover colours that you don't want, pick the Eraser Tool and simply erase the leftover colours for a perfect result. We can't wait to see your creative entries.
